LILLIAN

Girl power

I WAS a little overwhelmed to be invited to Canberra to spend International Women's Day with Governor-General Quentin Bryce and a swag of inspirational women. We were all included in Karen Phillips' book Women's Words Of Wisdom, Power And Passion, which was launched at Government House. Among them were my old friends June Dally-Watkins, Glen-Marie Frost, Kay Danes and daughter Jackie, the latter who was in Paris and couldn't attend. Her Excellency summed up our stories beautifully. "One of the qualities shared by all of the women in this book is an engaging openness. We all know in our hearts that often our greatest lessons are our failures," she said.

Not so Secret

SHARON Thurin has been a go-getter for as long as I've known her, so it's no surprise the Melbourne mum has decided to tackle childhood obesity through her latest business venture. A few years back she had us all munching on her Slim Secrets bars and biscuits. Now she's launched Supa Secrets for kids. "The chips and bars are low in calories and fat, but have the nutrition growing kids need," she said. Sharon's also working with the Childhood Obesity Foundation. Heloise Waislitz, Lindy and Michael Klim, Andi Lew, Monica Gordon and Belinda Fairbanks were among the parents showing their support.

Marquee mark

WHEN Richard and I stumbled across the brand-new Marquee Restaurant in the Trak Arcade a few weeks ago, I should have known that Jamie Nassar was behind it. Jamie's always a step ahead, and his latest venture with Matt Spry is impressive. In my day we went out to eat, but eating comes second to socialising for the young ones today, so for a place to succeed it needs atmosphere. The opening night saw Marquee get the thumbs-up from a gorgeous crowd including Lisa Fox, Rachel Holland, Lucy Gribble, Kate Neilson, Brian Goldsmith and Frank Stivala.

CELEBRITY chef George Calombaris hosted a night about all things French with PM24 partner Philippe Mouchel. The Circle's Yumi Stynes couldn't resist trying the latest food craze - macarons - thanks to MasterChef. And Mouchel had mouths watering for more as he described his French-inspired dishes and travel tales to distinguished food writer Rita Erlich.
